Levels

When you make your character, distribute 8 SP to your Stats however you want. I recommend focusing on 1 or 2 Stats.

You gain 10 Max Health and 5 SP when you level up.

Distribute SP into Stats from top to bottom on the back page. Once you put 1 SP in a tier, you unlock everything in that tier! Tier 6 of each Stat has no limit to the SP it can have.

Abbreviations

AP: Action Points.
You have 5 to spend on Actions. Restored when Player Phase starts.

SP: Stat Points in this Stat.
You start with 1 SP in each Stat.

LV: Your character's Level.
2*LV means 2 times your Level.

Combat

Often starts on Enemy Phase: Enemies move & attack. You can use some EP Actions.

Player Phase: Restore AP. Use Move once for free.

If you have 0 Health, you can't contribute to this fight!

Actions & Traits

Actions (range) can be done in Combat by spending AP. They can't go through Hard Zone boundaries or past their (range). If there is no (range), you can only do it in your Zone.

Traits are italicized and always active or automatically triggered when something happens.

Rolladie.net

Roleplaying

To roleplay, think on how your character would act in a moment and describe your character's behavior.

Your GM might ask you to roll a Stat. You can argue to roll a different Stat you think fits better.

Roll 1d6 and add that Stat's highest, unlocked Tier. (if you have 8 SP in Strength, add 2 to your roll)

In combat, spend 1 AP to roleplay something that isn't listed as an Action, like pulling a lever or grappling an enemy.

Rounding

Always round up!
